Compiled by Charles MacFarlane
Bulletin Telegraph Editor

The Associated Canadian Travellers' sponsors of the Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund have come a long way since they started this humane endeavor a few years ago.

Through the efforts of this group of men, many a handicapped child is now enjoying the benefits of a full, rich life, made possible by a healthy body, compliments of the ACT.

This group has done much for the crippled kiddies of this part of our province.

And daily the group is extending its efforts to build a bigger fund, thereby extending the amount of good work it can undertake for the youngsters.

Now all this is just a build-up to saying that the proceeds of the New Bulletin's Golden Glove boxing championships next Feb. 24, is to be turned over to the ACT's crippled children's fund.

And so you won't make an investment of a couple of bucks in the future of some poor, crippled little youngster? General sale of tickets to the big two-day affair opens Monday, with duets going for 50 cents, six bits and one dollar. You can get yours at Mike's Newsstand on Jasper, or by mail direct from the Bulletin.

So let's all pitch in and do our bit for the crippled kiddies of Northern Alberta. But remember, this isn't all charity. There are some darn good amateur boxing bouts on tap for the Golden Gloves.

As Tiger Goldstick would say: "Those kids we got lined up for the fights are good. Who knows, maybe we'll find a champ in the bunch. Remember Joe Louis, Sugar Ray Robinson and lots of other topnotchers came from Golden Glove ranks." "But anyway, all those kids will be in there trying real hard." "And if they're willing to make the big effort, I guess the least we can do is shell out a couple of bucks."

And Now the News

Cows have the upper hand, or hoof, in Durham, Conn., latest statistics from this rural community in Middlesex County show.

Durham has more cows—1,520—than people, automobiles or almost anything else. There are more acres of land—24,332 in exact. For a cow can't pay taxes. Means an average of 16 acres for each critter to chew on.

This pasturage the bovine population has to share with only 65 horses, nine less than inhabited Durham a year ago.

Other statistics gleaned from the annual grand list given Durham 800 motor vehicles and two factories.

There's also 1,008 people.

When Mrs. R. H. Niggemeyer of Quincy, Ill., opened a can of sauerkraut for supper, she found some cabbage of an unexpected variety—a tight green roll in one side of the can.

It turned out to be four $1 bills. Mrs. Niggemeyer has written to the canning company about it. She says she isn't mad—just curious.

Organized Coyote Hunts Invited by Government

CALGARY, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Alberta government stands ready to pay three-quarters of the cost of organized plans by municipalities or recognized community organizations to rid rural areas of coyotes, Lands Minister N. E. Tanner, yesterday told Western Stock Growers' Association.

Mr. Tanner spoke to delegates attending the association convention on government policy for control of predatory animals.

The minister defended the government's action in abolishing the bounty on coyotes and said Alberta was now alone in taking this action.

He commended the communities which had taken independent action by organizing coyote hunts. The government was prepared to pay three-quarters of the cost of such campaigns provided work was carried out on an organized basis.

Recently the government had employed hunters who had conducted fairly successful hunts, but even with greatly reduced costs, provided needed housing.

The provincial government's Horned Cattle Purchases Act, a controversial ruling to stockmen, was discussed but no unanimous handling of the problem was arrived at. All delegates agreed however the revenue derived from payment of 60 per cent on all horned cattle marketed should be used for improvement of the cattle industry. Delegates also voted on the livestock industry.

'Free Ticket to Hell' Faced Stranded Fliers

at the top of the mountain I pulled the stick back." Said Mr. Sgt. Charles Dunne, radio operator, from Los Angeles. "I didn't realize we were about to crash until I looked over at the assistant engineer and saw his eyes open up like saucers. I had got halfway out of my seat when we hit. A propeller came through the fuselage and broke my leg. If I still were in my seat it would have killed me."

SURVIVES SIXTH CRASH
Pte. Ray Sweeney of Halifax, one of the five Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry paratroopers aboard the plane as rescuers, said "everyone screamed. I fell out, I fell back, I fell down. The plane was running out of the tanks and the crew was soaked with it. We all got out fast but there was no fire."

For Sgt. Edward Weislock, crew chief of Milwaukee, Wis., it was his sixth airplane crash. He was due to retire in June after serving with the USAR in 1935.

Lieut. King and Pte. Dick Clappison of Hamilton, another paratrooper, broke spurs for Dunne's broken leg. The injured radio operator stayed in the wrecked aircraft throughout the three days, wrapped in 10 sleeping bags. He never slept a wink, the pain was so intense.

"Those paratroopers were wonderful," he said. "They took care of us. If it hadn't been for them we'd have frozen to death."

CANADIANS BUILD IGLOO
The assistant engineer, Pte. Rich and Toth of Newport News, Va., was a victim of shock and lost his memory for eight hours after the crash.

Weislock and the copilot, Lieut. Homer Zacharias of Tulsa, Okla., crashed out of the plane signals on the Gibson Girl set for two hours after the crash.

Sweeney and two other paratroopers, L. Cpl. Mike Chiklo of Kelowna, B.C., and Pte. Jack Shaw of Winnipeg backed an igloo-like shelter out of a snowbank in which most of the survivors slept the first night. King kept rearing the others that search parties would find them.

There was no panic. No one gave up hope of rescue.

PLANE SEES VERY FLARE
No fire were lit the first day after the crash. It was not until the plane had crashed only a few hundred feet from the summit, far from the timberline. No one was down and food eaten the first day.

The morning of the second day a search plane was seen passing overhead and Chiklo fired his Very pistol into the air and the plane crew saw the signal. It dropped rations.

They dropped a message in a canister which told us to make the letter "C" in the snow if none was injured and the letter "X" if any were injured; said Sweeney.

Clappison, Zacharias, Chiklo and Shaw, a rescue party of four men, was laid down on the snow and laid down on the snow. We stretched out on our stomachs to meet in the centre of the snow.

WIND CUTS SURVIVORS
The plane dropped a radio. It worked for about six hours and then we could only receive. Following the time that followed, we could hear messages over the set from the search plane. A ground rescue party in Weasels that was coming towards the mountain. We saw the Weasels at the West. Three others, however, were placed under a bannan hen.

'Fresh' Eggs Chirp
CALHOUN CITY, Miss.—(UP)—"Fresh" eggs bought by a housewife here proved to be fresher than she thought. She placed them in a paper bag set up at a kitchen cabinet and when she looked again one of the eggs had hatched a chick. Three others, however, were placed under a bannan hen.

Archbishop Resigns Because of Illness

Mgr. Charbonneau Goes to B.C. For Rest Cure After Overwork

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Pope Pius XII has accepted the resignation of Most Rev. Joseph Charbonneau as Archbishop of Montreal because of ill health, it was officially announced today.

A brief Vatican communiqué said the 56-year-old Ontario-born prelate had tendered his resignation for "health reasons." The Pope accepted it Feb. 10, 1950. Mgr. Charbonneau to the titular post of Archbishop of Bosphorus.

The archbishop now is convalescing in a B.C. nursing home. A Vatican source said he did not know whether Bishop Philippe Desrosiers of Sherbrooke would also resign.

Thursday Vatican sources described as "ridiculous" Quebec reports that the Pope intends to replace Bishop Desrosiers because of "anti-clerical" tendencies.

NO SURPRISE
Official word that Archbishop Charbonneau had resigned came as no surprise to Montrealeans in close touch with high ecclesiastical circles.

For the last week or so it had been reported that the archbishop's presence in Victoria for reasons of health meant only one thing—Mgr. Charbonneau had resigned.

He was last in Montreal at the end of January and was said to have called his two bishops in on Jan. 29 and said the following day he would say his last mass as Archbishop of Montreal at 3:30 a.m.

"He did, and a few hours later he left for Victoria by air," said today's announcement from Rome there was no official word forthcoming from any church source in Canada to confirm reports the archbishop had resigned.

Yet, without any source authoritative about it, there seemed no doubt the reports were true.

'LOOKED AN ILL MAN'
One church source last night said he had seen the archbishop just before he left Montreal and "Mgr. Charbonneau looked an ill man."

For the injured and the doctor kept with them that night. Some of us slept under a canopy made by stretching a parachute over a wing of the plane and the rest huddled in the igloo.

ROLL DOWN MOUNTAIN
"On the third day we started down the mountain to the helicopter which was waiting at the base to take us off. The mountain sloped at a 45-degree angle most of the way down. We rolled down the way to the valley."

"It was a horrible feeling to roll down the mountain. It was the only time I was really frightened. If a guy couldn't dig in his heels to stop himself every so often, he'd drop all the way into the valley."

LINKED BY ROPES
Dunne was strapped to the door of the Dakota. One man preceded him while others brought up the rear. They were linked together by nylon ropes so that the injured man could be eased down. The descent took two to three hours.

Sweeney, Carter, Clappison and three paratrooper men, guiding down another plane door loaded with supplies, were the last to leave the summit.

They started to tumble down the slope and jump down after him. They rolled together to the helicopter and that guy was laughing all the way."

MARVELS AT CANADIANS
Lieut. King praised the spirit of like paratrooper men "who worked like dogs to help us."

"I'll never forget looking back up the mountain and seeing the paratrooper men use his cliffside band down the slope and jump down after him. They rolled together to the helicopter and that guy was laughing all the way."

They were the injured. Dunne was placed in an enclosed stretcher attached to the outside of the "egg-hopper." Yesterday was Tully's 18th birthday.

When the helicopter returned for the second of its three flights, the Weasels party, led by an Indian guide, had reached the survivors at the base of the mountain.

Dunne set in after all survivors but Chiklo had been evacuated by the copter.

Condemned Cheerful In Cells

Two Awaiting Gallows Have Become Friends

Light-hearted joking passes the moments of two men as they wait in Fort Saskatchewan jail for "that day" when they take the last one-way walk.

Leslie Newell and Michael Hayes have become good friends as they await for "that day" when they take the last one-way walk.

BOTH IN GOOD HEALTH
Warden J. McLean yesterday said both men were in good health and did not seem to be bitter. Their frames of mind are excellent considering the outlook ahead," he said.

The convicted men don't get much in the way of recreation but do a lot of reading and writing and chat to each other, said Warden McLean.

Families and close friends are allowed to visit them regularly.

CLOSELY ATTENDED
Good medical attention was also part of the routine check for the two men said Mr. McLean.

"Usually we don't send a doctor around unless the convicted man says he isn't feeling well and both men in this case are excellent health," he said.

Another precaution taken with the two convicted murderers is not allowing them to handle knives or forks when they eat.

"We cut up all their food for them and let them eat it with a spoon," commented the warden.

A guard stands watch at each cell 24 hours a day.

Religious comfort is also allowed both men. The warden said a pastor visited the two twice a week.

SEEK COMMUTATION
In Edmonton yesterday G. G. Purvis, Newell's attorney who had been employed by him when he sought trial for killing his employer, T. Law, last June, admitted that a psychiatrist from Ottawa had examined his client recently.

"It is one of our last hour attempts for a commutation," he said. Application had been made to the remission branch of the justice department in Ottawa for squashing the death sentence.

Application was based, stated Mr. Purvis, on the war veteran's past record, his family and the report of a medical doctor during the trial.

Two other convicted murderers, Joe Gilbert and Hong Sui Chin, found guilty of murdering Sam Kee in his fourth Edmonton room cellar Oct. 8 were sentenced also to be hanged Feb. 25. They received a stay of execution to appeal their cases at the March sitting of the Supreme Court.

Pulse of Big Pipeline Is Beating in Edmonton

By BARNEY MCKINLEY
Bulletin Staff Writer

Pulse of the Alberta-Lakehead multi-million dollar crude oil pipeline is beating its first beat.

Due for completion by March 1 are two of the six storage tanks which mark the western terminus of the line on an important quarter section one mile east of Imperial Oil Refinery.

The pumping station connected to the huge tanks will provide the line with the long awaited flow of oil through the long line when the last pipeline connection has been made last.

Originally started last November, work on the big tanks was delayed until this week's "welding weather" gave the long awaited chance to push the job forward.

Now a tough, skilled crew of welders and steel workers, mostly local men under Toronto foreman Tommy Fischer of Horton Steel Works Ltd., is whipping the big steel plates into place. The schedule that calls for completion of all six tanks by next autumn.

Yesterday Mr. Fischer took time out from his hand signals to his busy crew to give some data on construction details.

He said the big tanks are 141 feet across the base and 48 feet high. Each one holds a nice neat 141,000 gallons — roughly enough to fill the storage space in about 16 grain elevators — to give a comparison.

They are being built inside earthen basins roughly 400 feet square—just about size of a city block.

Weights of the steel plates going into the structure not of take your breath away when you think of them being lifted by one derrick "big buggy."

And run into position on a "road" of rollers. The bottom row of plates in the shell, for instance, go a sturdy five tons each, with measurements 32 feet long, 8 feet wide.

Towards the top the plates have been honed down to a mere ton. Roof plates are lighterweights of one half ton each, measuring 20 feet long by 8 feet wide.

MAY BUILD 26 TANKS
Officials for Interprovincial Pipeline Ltd. for which the tanks are being built, hinted some tanks may build 26 tanks.

They calculated that the line itself would require 175,000 tons of high-strength steel in the 1,150 miles of pipe.

That's about enough for 1,000 miles of main line railway track to build 2½ ships the size of the Queen Elizabeth, the officials point out.

But even those figures can't make Edmonton's pipeline terminus store size tanks look small.

That 540 tons of steel each, still represents a lot of tank.

And when the "possible 20" of them are built on the site, as Alberta's oil arteries stretch, they are going to represent a lot of terminals — and perhaps the heart of the nation's wealth.

Highlands Group Seeks Members

Combined membership and donation fund drive will be launched Feb. 23 by the Highlands Community League.

Objective of the campaign is 70 family memberships and clearing up of remaining debt on the $35,000 mortgage.

More than 60 canvassers will participate.

Annual winter carnival will be held March 15. Highlight will be the crowning of a League queen.

Details of a program for children of all winter activities in the club are now being drafted. The finale is expected to take the form of a pageant in late April.

Whitehorse Is Quite Gay As Troops Await Big Job

Zero hour is one minute past midnight.

Thousands of American and Canadian soldiers and airmen at that time today Monday will move into the largest peacetime war training maneuvers in the history of either country as Exercise Sweetbriar.

DEFENCE OF ALASKA

Climax of the giant war game will come when an allied force will seek to dislodge the theoretical airborne "enemy" aggressor invasion of Alaska.

Troops from Wainwright Camp and U.S. troops from Camp Carleton, Colo. have been ordered to Whitehorse, exercise headquarters, by the longest mass-truck airlift in history and by motor convoys over the Alaska highway.

There will be a mass parachute jump by PFCs at paratroops as the big push against the "invader" gets underway.

All forces of both countries have also converged on Whitehorse to harness the enemy and support the ground forces.

Whitehorse, a mountain-wrapped town, was in a gala mood today as it saved its most prosperous period since the days of the Klondike gold rush.

ESKIMOS

Canadian and American troops, garbed in fur-lined parkas and their feet, thronged the streets, mingling with Indians. Eskimos also were present. Trucks and transport lumbered through the snow-packed streets while jet aircraft whizzed overhead.

Whitehorse's winter carnival, an annual event, was an added attraction. Its time advanced three weeks for the benefit of troops of two nations who were concentrated here.

Betty Runyan, the armed forces' candidate for carnival queen, stood out over Hollywood stars as Sweetbriar pin-up girl No. 1. Her smile beamed at Canadian soldiers and their G.I. counterparts from cans of trucks in the highway and walls of buildings in this rugged Yukon-Alaska border area.

Official hours for the soldiers and airmen were no drag, despite a 50-degree-below-zero temperature and a shortage of gifts. From sleeping soldiers, airmen and paratroopers jostled one another in places of interest made famous during the gold rush days, places like the weather-beaten cabin where Klondike Sam Slocum supposedly lived.

Talk Helps Her Lose Big Role For Minor

By Virginia MacPherson

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—(RUP)—It's beginning to look like Jean Hagen may get some place in Hollywood in spite of her one big fault that she talks too much.

This lady exactly a face falling among actresses. But Miss Hagen is the only one who owns up to it. "I shoot off my mouth the darnedest times," she said. "Just the other day I told a director the lead he had in mind for me was the lead I said I'd rather have the small part."

That poor man was so confused he gave it to her. That's how she crashed the acting business in the first place. "I was uttering at a Broadway show," she explained. "And I didn't think much of the leading lady I had to watch every night."

SAID PLENTY She didn't think much, but she said plenty. In a voice that eventually echoed backstage, Miss Hagen let it be known that, in her opinion, whoever told that girl she could act could—and should—be sued for slander.

The playwrights, Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, called her in to hear her sentiments in person. They got ven. And Miss Hagen got a date for try out for a stage career herself.

"I was so proud," she said, "I almost burst."

Her appendix did. On the very day of the try-out. But Miss Hagen later talked herself into a couple of Broadway roles and a chance to star in summer stock. Hollywood was next.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—If low-cut gowns need support, you can count on Marie Wilson. She's all for 'em. "You might call me a pioneer," remarked the unabashed blonde. "I started wearing low-cut gowns years ago, before they became the rage of Paris."

They're a little drab, but I like them. And I think the men do, too. They're the ones we dress to please."

Marie's main trouble is with centers. This pains her deeply.

She reported her latest tussle. In "My Friend Irma Goes West" she wears a deep-cut gown. The center wants her to add a lace dicky. She's also supposed to wear a bathing suit. Not a French bathing suit, but a real honest-to-godness American one. But for Marie, the center wants some lace added to the top of the suit.

NOT THAT! "My goodness," she remarked, "how can you add anything to a standard bathing suit? It should cover the whole situation."

"I don't want to star in French postcards or anything like that," she added. "I just want to add a little life to the American postcards."

I mentioned that some stars, such as Ava Gardner, Lauren Bacall

I explained that Ava is mixing up her career and her private life. She is not a pioneer in the way she is known as an actress. "Perhaps so," said Marie. "But she got where she is today by posing for cheesecake and thus keeping in the public eye. I think all of us strive to be actresses. But we have another responsibility besides our art. That is to sell our movies. Cheesecake is one of the ways to do that."

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Pre-Lenten Thoughts

"And He said to all: If anyone wishes to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow Me." This Scriptural text is especially timely for the coming Lenten season since it emphasizes the spirit of self-abnegation that marks the true Christian. It reminds us that selfishness—we may call it also pride or infidelity—is essentially the renunciation of God for unworthy things.

The lesson of Lent is that man must put first things first. The curbing of yearning inclinations, the self-imposed mortifications of this season, are an acknowledgment that we must seek primarily what is pleasing to God. Man is created to love God; and he must learn that this entails a constant readiness to put self last rather than first.

In the Lord's Prayer, the Christian asks that "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." To do God's will means to avoid sin, to practice virtue. It means to curb the lusts of the flesh, to do justly to others, to be patient and kind, to give God honor and praise in all things. Lent reminds us that duty to God is paramount and inescapable.

But Lent should not be filled with grudging awareness of God's supremacy. It should be marked by a renewed willingness to do His service. It should stimulate us to ardent love of His boundless perfection; to gratitude for the multitude of His mercies.

In this Lent of 1950, we should try to curb undue attachment to the world. The spirit of hedonism is rampant everywhere. Millions conduct their lives as though God did not exist, as though there is to be no final hour of reckoning for every individual. Let us be invited to pause and ask ourselves whether or not our lives are motivated by pure or base ideals. It is by the manner in which we observe this 40-day period that we can determine how closely we are in harmony with God's will.

Queen's University Bars Atheist Club

KINGSTON, Ont.—A ban against the formation of an atheist and agnostic club on the Queen's University campus here has been issued by the principal and vice-chancellor, Dr. R. C. Wallace. Earlier, a small group of students met and announced the formation of such a club.

"Queen's University admits students of many religious faiths, Roman Catholic, Protestant of various churches, Anglicans, Jews and, no doubt, some of no religious affiliations at all," said Dr. Wallace in his statement. "And Queen's welcomes all students and organizations for any students to follow their own religious faiths."

"But there is no room for any club of organization which is anti-religious, nor will any such organization have a place in Queen's. The traditions and history of Queen's are, in the best sense, in the religious atmosphere. They will continue in that atmosphere."

The same group of students assembled again after this statement was issued and decided to form a club but to drop the word atheist from the name. The group denied any anti-religious bias and said its purpose was to conduct a "critical study of the world's living religions."

Special Service At Metropolitan

Episcopalians To Raise Large Missions Fund

LOS ANGELES — A campaign to raise a capital investment fund of at least $750,000 for the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles, was authorized by delegates to the group's 35th annual convention held in Los Angeles last week. The fund would be used largely for the expansion of diocesan mission work. Hector Kaiser, Jr., son of the automobile manufacturer, and Robert E. Gross, president of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., are expected to head the campaign.

The first Canadian boat propelled by a compound steam engine, was used on the St. John River in 1842.

Fear of Russ Forces Asia To Look Here

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Countries in the Far East, where the spread of Soviet imperialism is feared, are anxious to increase trade with Canada, External Affairs Minister Pearson told a press conference yesterday.

Mr. Pearson said that besides attending the conference of commonwealth external affairs ministers in Colombo, Ceylon, the Canadian delegation had discussed general trade and economic matters.

"What we tried to do was to survey the possibilities of increasing Canadian trade," said Mr. Pearson. "Although that was useful, we don't try to kid ourselves that because we spent two or three days in some of these places, our exports are going to be doubled right away."

TRADE POSSIBILITIES

During the tour that took them to Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Burma, Malaya, Hong Kong and Japan, the Canadian delegation, including economic experts of the external affairs department, were impressed by the long-range possibilities of increased trade with the Far East.

Mr. Pearson made these other points:

1. Delegates to the Colombo conference felt there was a real danger of Soviet imperialism overrunning the Far East.
2. He will make a statement to the Commons on his trip as soon as a suitable occasion arises following the opening of the session next Thursday, Feb. 16.
3. Delegates at Colombo realized that Canada had to take a hard line and have to be considered in the light of commitments already made under such things as the North Atlantic Treaty.
4. People in the Far East want technical assistance from Canada.

League Ready For Carnival

Federation of Community Leagues annual winter carnival will be held March 25 in Edmonton Gardens. It was announced Thursday night at the federation's meeting in Civic block.

More than 500 skaters are expected to take part. The carnival will take the form of a pageant with skating and musical backgrounds designed to bring out the color of the event.

The program has been prepared by Lilian Munroe Johnson, federation figure skating instructor.

The show will conclude with the crowning of a queen, picked from candidates of leagues throughout the city.

Leagues which are not having a carnival, or that are not electing a community queen, will be allowed to nominate one girl over 16 years of age to the federation event as a candidate.

The Community Leader, official publication of the federation, has obtained a secure footing, both in advertising and in circulation, and is now permanently established, Mr. Stannards said.

Noel Dant, Edmonton town planner, discussed town planning generally, and opened discussion on the topic.

Lucky Seven Leave Plane

SPECIAL TO THE BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(UP)—Seven "lucky" passengers who were aboard a plane that crashed today at their transport plane, C-47, transport when it caught fire continued their flight eastward today aboard another plane.

None of the seven occupants of the wrecked plane was injured. Only casualty was a driver which was killed by a flying stove from one of the transport's splintered propellers.

The plane crashed when the pilot under Los Angeles International airport as he approached for a landing. It came into a low phase, flipped into an eight-foot turn around the runway and veered to a halt in the mud a short distance from the landing strip.

With the undercarriage ripped off and both motors jarred from their mounts, the nose of the transport burst into flame.

The seven walked away from the wreck as emergency fire and rescue units arrived.

"We were all damned lucky to get out alive," the pilot said.

Ballet Dancers Invited To Try For Civic Opera

Ballerinas and baritone got the call this week from the Civic Opera Society.

Society musical director Mrs. J. B. Carmichael is preparing for next fall's production of "Song of Norway" and would like to include in the show a full-blooded ballet group.

So if you're female, between 17 and 30 years, and can dance ballet, don't hesitate to phone Mrs. Carmichael at 22971 for a try-out.

Baritone who would like to sing solo parts in the opera are also urged to phone Mrs. Carmichael for audition.

Calgary Asks Federal Favors While Giving Stampede Bids

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—(CP)—A big cowboy hat and a make a definite commitment. H. H. Mackay, Calgary through Canada's capital yesterday.

During a whirlwind two-day visit he extended an invitation to Prime Minister St. Laurent to open the 1950 Calgary Stampede—the big, best and best yet—met three Calgary ministers, Mayor E. A. Bourque, and a host of government and civic officials.

Business in the capital completed, he left by air for Toronto for a meeting today with Mayor Hiram McCallum.

"This is a big year for us—the 70th anniversary of the founding of Calgary as an RCMP fort," said Mr. Mackay. "We are anxious to have Mr. St. Laurent open the Stampede, July 10, if his other duties will permit."

The opening date is too far in the future for the prime minister to subsidized housing scheme in Calgary; discussed the need of a new Calgary air terminal building with Transport Minister Chevrier; and won from the Board of Railway Commissioners a promise to investigate the need of a subway in Calgary's Ninth and Fourth street west.

He said also he had proposed to Mayor Camille House of Montreal that Quebec send a "Bon Emile" special train to this year's Calgary Stampede.

Australia's population increased by 150,232 persons in 1948 to an estimated 7,794,880 by the end of the year.

B.C. Asks Change In System Of Getting 'What Traffic Will Bear'

By John LeBlanc
OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Main submissions of the provinces to the royal commission on transportation were completed yesterday, bringing the 11-month inquiry one stage nearer the end.

Closing of British Columbia's case rounded out the basic provincial brief, presentation of which started at Winnipeg last summer. All provinces except Ontario and Quebec entered evidence.

Two issues DEBATABLE

Still to be heard by the commission were representations from opposing sides on two major specific issues:

1. The fate of the west's long statutory freight rates on grain and grain products, which will see the prairie provinces and the western grain trade battling to preserve the rates. The CPR wants them taken off the statute book.
2. The question of whether the railways have gone far enough in effecting joint economies under a 1933 federal statute ordering them to save money through co-operation.

The provinces will contend such economies have been negligible.

UNIFORM ACCOUNTING

British Columbia's concluding case revolved yesterday around two principal points:

1. The province's proposal for a sweeping change in the basis of setting freight rates.
2. Its contention that the railways should be compelled to adopt uniform accounting methods.

On the setting of rates, B.C. has urged that the railways switch toward the "cost of service" principle as against the "value of service" principle now in effect.

Under the province's plan, rates would be more in line with the cost of actually transporting goods. Under "value of service," rates are graded in accordance with "what the traffic will bear."

MORE MONOPOLY?

Opposing the B.C. idea, F. C. S. Evans, CPR vice-president and general counsel, suggested it might accentuate whatever monopoly on transportation the railways now have.

Since average railroad costs are lower than trucking cost per ton-

BUS QUEUES TO APPEAR IN WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10.—(CP)—Bus queuing will be introduced shortly in Winnipeg on a trial basis.

A "queue here" sign will be erected at a chosen stop and a policeman will be placed on duty during rush hours to ask passengers to keep in line.

If the experiment is successful the city will ask Winnipeg Electric Company to introduce queuing at all stops.

Calgary Seeks Phone Setup

Transfer of headquarters of the Alberta government telephone from Edmonton to Calgary has been requested by Calgary Chamber of Commerce, it was learned today.

Public Works Minister D. B. MacArthur has been asked to make the transfer. No reply has yet been received, according to report from Calgary.

Edmonton Deputy Minister of Telephones A. Higgins said the Calgary request is now receiving consideration by the department, but no decision has been reached.

The Calgary chamber contended the foothills city is the logical location for the A. G. T. headquarters because Calgary is the centre of the telephone operational system. Senior executives and personnel could be closer to operating problems.

A Dead-End Kid At Heart

Jack Berry, sometimes known as the Mum Match-maker of Maui, often through the local fight promoter, hasn't had too many belly-laughs from box-office returns in the past while.

In fact Mr. Berry has yet to enjoy even one, honest 'gosh fat pay day'.

Nevertheless he gets more than the odd laugh out of the business of trying to prove that Edmonton is a good town. This is particularly the case when 'Irish Bill' Eddy is in the picture.

Eddy, in case you haven't heard (and thousands of Edmontonians haven't), is at heart, something of a Dead End Kid.

Maybe it is stretching a point to call the 26-year-old battler out of Flint, Mich., a kid of any kind.

But there's no doubting his east-side leanings, even to the point of talking out of the side of his mouth if the occasion calls for it.

As the billboards, currently going up all over town to advertise the Eddy-Al Marotti fight next Friday, state it the former "fights as terrific as he talks."

A Shrinking Violet Type

Here's a sample of Eddy's dialogue to the making of a fight. The dialogue, as reported by promoter Berry, resulted from a long distance call to Los Angeles the other morning.

Berry: How about coming up here and fighting for me again?

Eddy: Now. Yuh ain't got anybody up there c'n give me a fight.

Berry: Yes I have. I've got a boy that'll make you step plenty.

Eddy: Who is he?

Berry: Al Marotti.

Eddy: Never heard of him.

Berry: He beat Benny Geary.

Eddy: Yeah, but did he stop him? Can't be much good if he didn't stop Geary. Eddy knocked out Geary in the third round here a couple of months back.

Berry: He stopped Hal Robbins.

Eddy: So what? I beat Robbins.

Berry: Sure, but Marotti knocked him out in five. He stayed 10 with you.

Eddy: Okay, I'll take the fight. But better get me two or three more lined up. After I beat this Marotti might as well stick around for a couple more.

What! Travel 2nd Class

In the meantime promoter Berry had wired Eddy his transportation—second class passage. It was. A lot of people who aren't fighters—travel this way and worse. But the irrepressible Eddy wasn't for having any.

By return mail came a request for an additional $65. "You know," he advised Berry, "I never travel any other way but first class."

At that Berry would probably settle for the additional touch—and like it—if he was certain it would get Eddy here in plenty of time for the go with Marotti.

The afternoon of the Geary-Eddy fight a worried Berry waited and waited for the latter to arrive from Seattle. Eddy had agreed to get in here the night before.

But when he failed even to arrive by 12:00 noon on the day itself, Berry started phoning around.

He went so far as to contact Eddy's hotel in Seattle, that worthy being billed to take on one John Davis the night after the Geary box.

No Eddy. And no Eddy at any intermediate points along the way.

Finally—at exactly 7:50 p.m.—Eddy arrived by plane. As of that moment Berry had chewed his fingernails clear to the elbow.

And it didn't help any when Eddy did, upon alighting from the aircraft, was stuck out his hand and say in an off hand way:

"Gee, I bet you were worried, even."

Ron Tooker scored two goals for Rangers, while John Bueck and Jerry MacDonald notched singles. South Side markers were netted by Nichol and Reinhart.

Traver Luckie hit the net for the winning goal in the overtime period in the Bulletin's goal. Bueck scored the winning goal in the overtime period in the Bulletin's goal.

stucco, and follows modern trend in restaurant design. The spacious interior is divided by a rattan partition into a comfortable dining room and the modern lunch counter. The dining room has a seating capacity of 34, and is furnished with modern chrome chairs and tables.

The west wall of the room is artistically designed in wine and grey, portraying golden pheasants in flight.

The soft glow of indirect neon lighting enhances the cool tones of the blues and greys in the wall design, giving the interior the cozy feeling of comfort.

Prominently displayed as fitting symbols, are two beautiful pheas-

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
By HAROLD R. FOSTER

Synopsis: BOLTAR AND PRINCE VALIANT LISTEN TO THE GROWING TUMULT WITHIN THE CITY. "I NEVER SHOULD HAVE ALLOWED MY POOR INNOCENT BOYS TO GO INTO THAT NOISY TOWN!" MUTTERS THEIR CAPTAIN PIOUSLY. "ITS CITIZENS SEEM MOST UNFRIENDLY."

A LANTERN IS HOISTED TO THE YARD TO GUIDE THE SAILORS THOUGH THERE IS PLENTY OF LIGHT, FOR A WAREHOUSE SEEMS TO BE BURNING.

THEN SOME OF THE POOR, INNOCENT 'BOYS' CAN BE SEEN RETURNING, BENDING GENEATH THE WEIGHT OF BOXES AND BALES.

THESE ARE TOSSED ABOARD AND THE 'BOYS' RETURN FOR MORE. BOLTAR TURNS TO VAL. "THE LADS MUST HAVE MADE SOME PURCHASES," HE EXPLAINS.

FINALLY THE WHOLE CREW RETURNS, BACKING SLOWLY TOWARD THE SHIP AMID A SHOWER OF MISSILES. THEN, AS THE VESSEL MOVES AWAY FROM THE QUAY, THEY TURN QUICKLY AND LEAP ABOARD!

BY DAWN THE 'PURCHASES' ARE ALL STOWED, THE MOUNTAINS OF CALEDONIA ARE FAINT IN THE DISTANCE AND AHEAD THE WIDE, WILD EMPTY SEA.

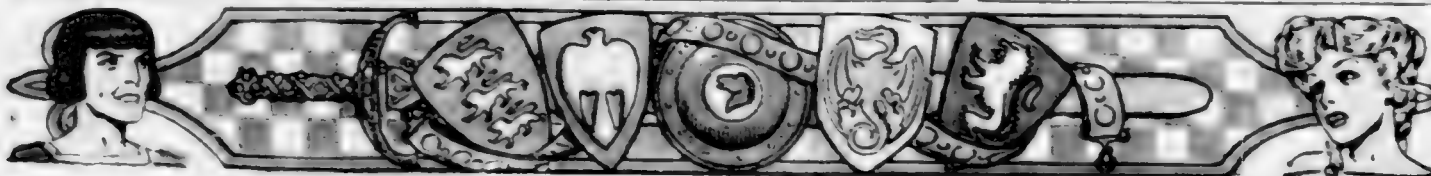

THE PASSENGERS COME OUT ON THE SUNNY DECK AND, AS USUAL, THE SIGHT OF KATWIN SETS BOLTAR STRUTTING LIKE A ROOSTER.

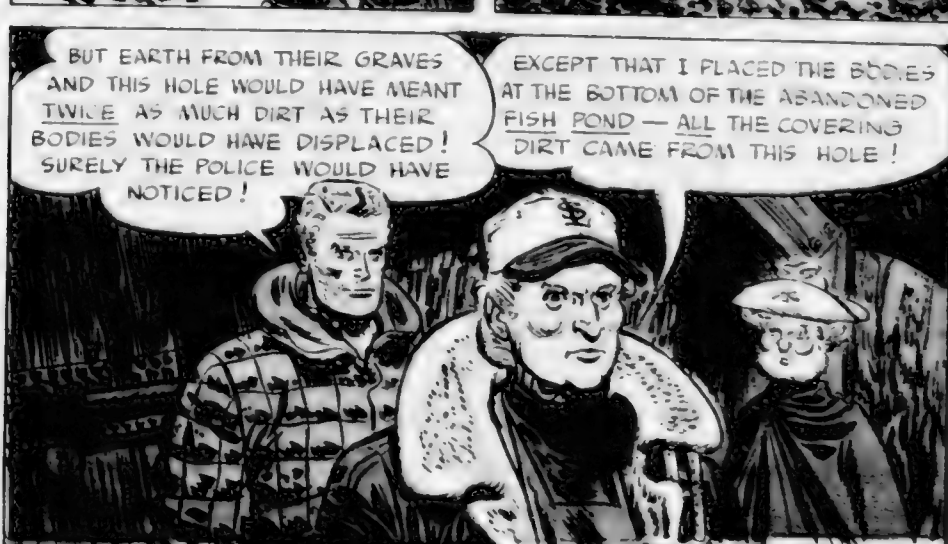

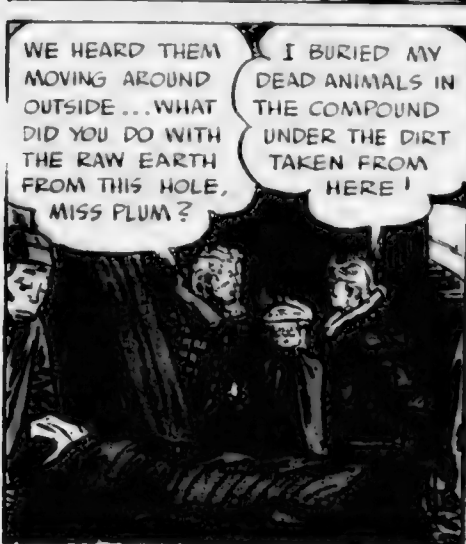

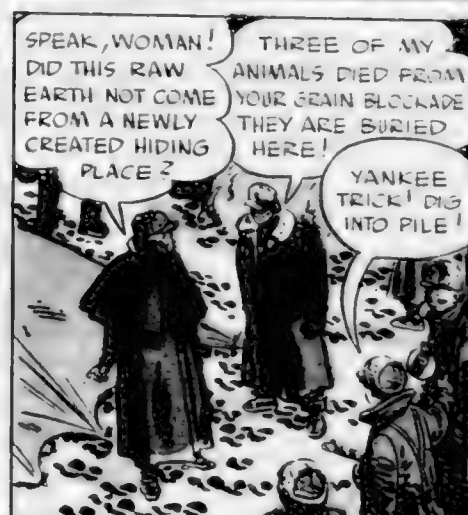

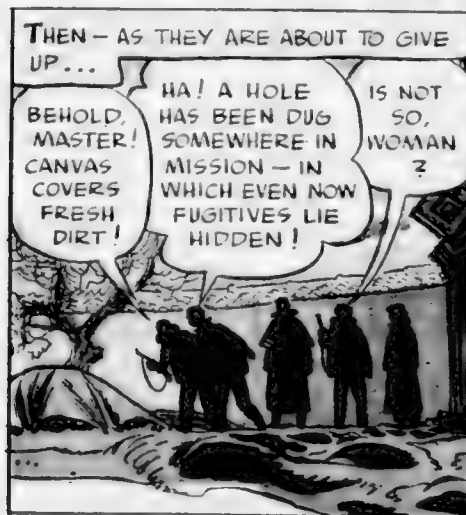

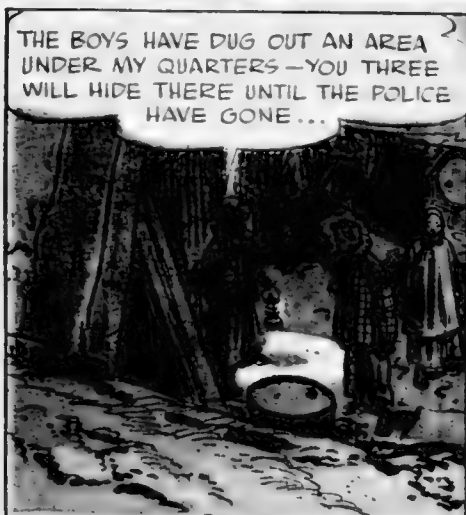

BUT TILICUM HANDS PRINCE ARN TO KATWIN, WALKS UP TO BOLTAR AND SAYS VERY QUIETLY: "ENDANGER THE SUNWOMAN'S MAN-CHILD AGAIN AND I WILL KILL YOU."

NEXT WEEK - Out to Sea.

Basic English for Better Citizenship

OBJECT TECHNIQUE in learning English is demonstrated by Gertrude Schlam from Germany. She is using spoon and glass. Newcomers learn all English they need in 15 weeks.

THE OLD PICTURE BOOK method of learning names of objects is still proving its value for new Canadians. Irene Moos, newcomer from Germany, is being taught words from pictures by English teacher Mrs. A. G. Bailey.

Putting Words Together In 850 Simple Exercises

By PAT McVEAN
Bulletin Staff Writer

New Canadians at night classes in Victoria high school are learning in 15 weeks all of the English language they need to use.

They are doing so by learning the 850 basic English words of the language, a system that works so well many of them who could not say one English word before now talk quickly and write in this language.

ORAL AND WRITTEN

They get this knowledge by seeing the teacher point to many things, and say the name of every one.

Then they learn to read and write all the words as well as to say them. As they learn the words, they are given an idea of how to put them together in the right way.

This way of learning English gives them a good small base system of using the full language and later they can learn more complex English words and language structure.

A representative of this paper one day of the course is: work, following the comparison between the use of "this", "these" and "that".

The group led by Mrs. A. G. Bailey, saw a picture of a building and pointed to every part of it, said such things as "this is the roof", "these are the windows", "this is the door".

The teacher then wrote the new words on the blackboard and the learners copied them in their work books.

Though the class started at Christmas, they will be able to talk smoothly after ten more weeks of learning. Some learners now in their second year are getting as good a knowledge of language theory as that taught in public schools.

SEVEN TEACHERS

About 150 learners at the basic English classes at Victoria high school this year, and seven teachers are connected with the program. H. A. McFarland is head of the night school.

Teachers and learners say the classes are enough to give any one a working knowledge of the English language enough for common talking, writing and reading needs. If you doubt this theory you will be surprised when we say every class.

Young, Old Have Fun At McKernan Carnival

Three generations simultaneously let down their hair Friday night and went all out in carnival spirit.

From three to 52, the McKernan community league members raced, danced and competed together to make their annual winter carnival a success.

Not were the older people out alone in prizes, carrying off at least three events to earn them their share of the prize.

part of this story has been written in plain English and every word used in it is among the 850 basic words taught at the night school.

Teachers and learners say the classes are enough to give any one a working knowledge of the English language enough for common talking, writing and reading needs. If you doubt this theory you will be surprised when we say every class.

ORPHAN BOY IN HOSPITAL

Four-year-old Steve Kendus is still in Bluebird hospital under observation by authorities.

The boy was admitted last week after his mother, Olga Kendus, 27, a displaced person, only in Alberta a week, was fatally shot as she lay in bed beside him in an Edmonton district farm home. Joy of man who shot her when she refused to marry him, was later found in a well.

Place Names Honor Heroes

A northern Alberta lake and a river in the Norbert district are being named to honor an Edmonton Victoria Cross winner of the First Great War, and a Calgary alman who died in a flying accident in 1946.

A lake 55 miles south west of Fort Smith is being named "Robertson Lake" after the late Pte James Peter Robertson of Edmonton. Pte Robertson was posthumously awarded the Victoria Cross after he rushed a machine gun crew while he served with the 27th Battalion in France. He attempted to rescue supplies of the force who were wounded in front of the trenches. Pte Robertson was killed as he carried the second man to safety.

A river south west of Norbert is being named Joyce River in honor of the late Sgt. Edw. R. G. Joyce of Calgary, winner of the Air Force Cross. The alman was killed in a flying accident Feb. 15, 1946, while serving with Coastal and Transport Command.

Fairs Await Rate Report

With special rail rates for shipments of purchased livestock are expected, Edmonton Exhibition Association officials are anxiously waiting for decision of railways on rates for shipping of exhibition stock, expected by Feb. 15.

President James Paul of the Exhibition Association said today that if rates proposed by railways for stock shipped to western fairs become effective, a death blow will be dealt stock exhibiting at the annual fairs.

Mr. Paul said that strong protests have been made by Western Fair Association and livestock breeders and livestock associations against the new rates, which mean cancellation of special rates formerly granted, plus several new rate increases. The local increases amount to 150 per cent over previous rates on livestock shipped to fairs for exhibiting.

The Exhibition manager said annual western fair stock exhibitors will be reduced to size of regional fairs if the rates proposed by the Canadian government become effective.

Heating of the rates on shipments of purchased stock will seriously affect livestock in the west, preventing good distribution of blooded stock, he said.

Baptists Join For Mass Rally

Rev. Daniel B. Phillips, B.A., B.D., of Toronto, will address members of Baptists Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 8 p.m. in the new church of Bonnie Dine.

Mr. Phillips is a graduate of University of B.C. in arts and took his degree in theology at McMaster. He has just resigned as assistant pastor at Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto.

After visiting his parents in Vancouver, Mr. Phillips expects to visit his wife and child for Alberta. He will replace Rev. Norman Dabbs, who was recently murdered there by a band of drunken hooligans.

Fight on Rentals Attracts Only 15

Tenants' Meeting Told Slum Condition Coming

Only 15 persons turned out last night at a meeting to form a tenants' association and one of them—a lonely landlord—was virtually "hounded" from the hall.

At the meeting held in the Labour Temple, chairman William Tamm attacked city landlords who he said are "renting" converted cottages for $60 a month.

The recent 20 per cent rent increase is forcing some working families to move into "slum shacks" he said.

"Notorious slums are being bred in this city," he warned.

Formation of a Tenants' League, such as that operating in Calgary, was urged by the chairman and Mrs. Rose Sarnan, co-chairman of the meeting. No officers were elected, however, because of the limited turnout. Only 15 were present.

A provisional committee will plan a more widely publicized meeting. A time landlord turned out. He was "hounded" from the meeting after arguing that rent controls were causing some landlords to lose money and that controls, in some cases, made it impossible to keep buildings open. He claimed abolition of controls would make more accommodations available.

During the Second World War, there were in both private and production of Canadian film products brought from cash income from $225,000 in 1949 to $165,000 in 1945.

Some applications for qualification certificates have been made to the department. Mr. Stickle said. Weiden must make some examinations under department supervision before they are permitted to work in this province.

LOTS OF WELDERS

Adequate welding labor will be available for extensive pipeline operations planned for later this year, the department believes.

In addition to many welders from other parts of Canada who have been allocated their way to work here, 4,800 Albertans are licensed as welders.

At least 15 per cent of them hold qualifications as high as any available in Canada, Mr. Stickle said.

"Adequate supplies of labor for pipeline welding operations will be available in Canada," he said.

Struck By Car

J. Campbell, of High Road, was taken to Royal Alexandra hospital last night, but not detained, after being struck down by a auto at 91 street, and Jasper avenue.

Runs Over Pupul

RYLAND, Vt.—(U.P.)—Richard Flinders, 10, didn't show up at school, but his teacher, Mrs. Clara Johnson, knew why. Her automobile had run over and injured him while he was walking along a street.

THREE-YEAR-OLD THINKS MOM'S A CLEVER GAL

WHEN YOUNG MOTHERS are confined to the family hospital to take care of the small one, they want their surroundings as bright and gay as possible. Mrs. E. P. McCall has serious intentions about rejuvenating her bedroom, and she's not alone. Son Patrick thinks his Mom is pretty sassy with the needle to be able to do this. Sewing is a comparatively easy venture for Mrs. McCall, but "if I ever learn any younger," she says.

THE "SPRUCEHAVEN"—To satisfy the needs of a growing family, four bedrooms become necessary. In the above design the stairway is located in a central position which allows two large bedrooms on the second floor. These are lighted from each gable and plus an extended dormer facing the garden with a bathroom located between. This groups all the plumbing on one stack. The exterior design is in the always popular Early American, Colonial style. A sturdy chimney and nicely proportioned windows give a good architectural character to the house. It will be noted that each bedroom is large enough for twin beds. Large closets and a through hall from front entrance to the kitchen adds to the efficiency of the plan arrangement. Total frontage required with attached breezeway and garage is 75 feet. This is another in the Bulletin series of homes for pleasant living designed by Harold C. Beckett, architect, Windsor.

Forestry Association Urges More Planting

By Thomas Mapp

MONTREAL, Feb. 11.—(HUP)—Woodman, woodman, spare that tree! And Phil Harris wasn't kidding. He makes a good public relations man for the Canadian Forestry Association.

The association has protected trees for over 20 years and what's more planted 650,000,000 fresh young trees in the wake of the war.

With proper reforestation Canada's timber supplies are inexhaustible, the association reported.

RELYING ON RE-GROWTH
According to J. Anderson, vice-president of the association, natural regeneration is being relied upon almost entirely to ensure perpetual supplies of wood. But planting is also needed.

Anderson said operations and provincial governments, as well as work together to re-plant timberland, make certain timber's regeneration is assured.

"To get our timber we need a much greater re-investment in the forests was needed by both the governments and industry."

A recent study showed that 250,000 acres of timberland are being lost each year, mostly through logging and fire.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED
While cost of replanting huge areas where natural re-growth is not satisfactory, or where timberland that should be returned to the crown is considered too costly at present, some solution may be found through federal-provincial co-operation under the new Canada Forestry Act.

On The Farm

By Vic O'Neill
Bulletin Staff Writer

Seriousness with which farmers and operators are regarding Canada's dairy products marketing problem was amply demonstrated in the record attendance at the 29th annual convention of the Alberta Dairywomen's Association.

The three-day meeting held in Edmonton Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday attracted a total of 281 registered delegates.

This number was apart from a large battery of dairy officials from universities as well as various provincial and federal dairy authorities who addressed the convention.

Immediate past-president R. P. Gibb of St. Albert described the attendance as the largest since inception of the association in 1919.

With even the early-going farmer falling in line with the accelerated tempo of the times ushered in by the Second Great War, there doesn't appear to be great danger of an imminent relapse to over-catch days.

But it's not altogether certain that even would not again be high on some of Alberta's side highways during spring and during the rainy season, judging by the numerous resolutions from farm organizations seeking road improvement.

On power would at least get the farmers' vehicles through the mire and the yoke would be on the animals instead of, as at present, on the farmer.

Another evidence of the farmers' swing to speed is seen in the considerable number who have tossed the family car over to the infant and bought themselves an airplane.

It is estimated there are about 100 farmers in the province who have privately-owned planes. Majority of the farm-planes are located in the southern half of the province but in the north around the Edmonton district there are between 10 and 15, according to Edmonton Flying Club officials.

Remember the old days when farmers generally didn't bother too much about decorating themselves in a smartly-tailored turnout? There's been a big change since highways and cars have cut days into hours in the matter of travel. Anyone who has ever attended a farmers' convention in recent years will agree a good number of them are distinguishable from the "banker" type of businessman only by the deeper suntan of their skin.

U.K. Industry Told To Export Or Go Without

LONDON, Feb. 11. — (CP) —

United Kingdom manufacturers yesterday were told that unless they increase exports to dollar countries, "we shall have to go without many of the essential foods and raw materials we buy from the United States and Canada."

This get-out-and-do-better declaration was contained in a 63-page booklet distributed to some 30,000 manufacturers by Britain's dollar export board.

The booklet, a guide to the marketing of goods in Canada and the U.S., said that exports to dollar countries "can be vastly expanded if the right outlets are found."

Senator Is Mum As Tass Scribe Poises Pencil

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem. Conn.), chairman of the Senate House of Representatives Atomic Energy Committee, cut short a press conference yesterday because a correspondent for Tass, the Russian news agency, was present.

McMahon was being questioned about a closed-door meeting with members of the Atomic Energy Commission when a reporter asked how much money would be needed to develop a hydrogen bomb.

"If I knew I wouldn't tell you," McMahon retorted. "We have a representative here who transmits every word I say directly to the Soviet Union. That's the kind of system we run."

McMahon was referring to Tass.

BRIDGE

Utilize All Entries To Make Contracts

By William E. McConney

When George A. Alderton II, of Detroit, was president of the American Contract Bridge League, he did a great deal in proving to prejudiced groups throughout the country that tournament bridge is one of our cleanest forms of pastime. Clergy and church groups have taken it up as it is one game which can be played without any stakes.

Mr. Alderton tells me that his son, George III, started a duplicate game at Bethany College. In one of their games recently Mitch Bedford of Syracuse, N. Y., and Arthur Ames of Boston, were top North and South, while Wes Blomick of McKeesport, Pa., and Dave Robinson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., were top East and West.

Bedford's father, who is a clergyman in Syracuse, plays duplicate also. Young Bedford is studying for the ministry and has had a pupil in Pennsylvania.

In today's hand I think Bedford (sitting South) handled the timing very well. West made a very smart opening of the king of hearts, which declarer had to win with the ace. The ace of clubs was cashed by declarer. The ten of clubs was trumped in dummy with the six of spades.

 The nine of diamonds was returned and overtake by declarer with the ten-spot. The ace of clubs was trumped with the eight of spades. The king of spades was cashed and then Mitch played the jack of diamonds, which was overtake with the king in his hand.

He then cashed the ace of spades and led the four of diamonds, winning the trick in dummy with the ace. On the fourth diamond he discarded his nine of hearts and conceded to his opponent the queen of trumps.

Thus, by utilizing all of his entries and carefully making a play of the hand, declarer made his slam contract.
